Subject: RE: DOCKET NO. SDWA-10-2013-0080 / RWS Data Usability Summary Report - FOURTH Sample Delivery Group

There was a miscommunication between my RWS sample team leader and the project chemist regarding the numbering of the field duplicates. This was resolved yesterday to correct the error in the reports regarding the duplicate samples. However, I (personally) was pulling the reports together for publishing and grabbed the "old" reports from our server, not the updated reports from the chemist.

The reports do discuss the duplicate samples, but I can understand the confusion in not seeing the field blanks called out specifically. We will change this portion of the report to make it clear that field blanks were collected.

I take responsibility for this error. I will produce the "correct" reports electronically and send to you today. The hard copies will be revised and send out today as well.

Please accept my apologies. Thank you for alerting us.

Hi Kevin,

We're looking through the QA/QC summaries you've provided so far and they state that duplicate samples and field blank samples were not taken, although we see those samples actually were taken when we look at the data.

I'll call you this afternoon about well locations.

Eric
